mPassport® London iPhone App Released

The second in a series from HTH Worldwide Helps Travelers Navigate Healthcare

January 26, 2010 (Radnor, PA) — HTH Worldwide, a global health and safety services company, announced today that it has launched mPassport® London - a new iPhone application for finding quality healthcare services abroad.

Following the earlier release of mPassport® Paris, mPassport® London is now available in the iTunes App Store for downloading onto 75 million iPhones and iPod Touches around the world. The second in a series of applications covering world capitals, mPassport® London features:

- Detailed profiles of over 250 carefully selected English-speaking physicians and dentists
- An appointment scheduling function that helps travelers arrange office visits with these practitioners on short notice
- iPhone's mapping and GPS functionality to help visitors to London find the shortest route to convenient care.

Every year almost two million Americans visit London.

iPhone users can use mPassport to conveniently contact HTH's concierge service to request an appointment with a specific doctor or within a medical specialty. mPassport also maps and profiles notable hospitals and pharmacies and provides brand name equivalents for over 340 prescription and over-the-counter drugs.

"London is our second destination to go live in the app store. By the end of the first quarter of 2010, we will have launched a total of twenty applications covering five continents," said Andy Orr, product manager for mPassport. HTH also maintains an mPassport mobile web site at mpassport.com where subscribers can access these features on a worldwide basis.
